

Back in the mists of another time it was decided that, since SCHG does not meet in July or August, there should be a challenge project to help the members survive those two months. It would be presented at the June meeting, everyone would bring their finished projects to the October meeting and they would be shown at WeFF in November. There is no obligation to participate, just fun if you do.

This year the challenge is "Get a Clue". Each participating member draws Clues from three baskets. As in the board game one is Murderer, one is Place and one is Weapon. You are then on your own to create. What you create or how you create it (we do prefer fiber related projects) is entirely up to your interests and imagination.

We will talk about this again at the September meeting, and encourage everyone to finish off something for the October meeting.

To get your Clues or to ask more questions please contact Debbie Shoenberger bck2garden@gmail.com. I will offer clues and basic help if you need it.

We do not care how experienced or "in practice" a member may be. What we do care about is offering everyone something to think about and to keep everyone creating during the long wait for our September meeting.
